Logo uses

For our creatives the logo band should be placed at the top-left or right corner or bottom-left or right corner using our logo mark to measure the distance of the space needed from the edge of the creative.

When adding a disclaimer patch to the creative the logo mark should be placed on top of it to measure the distance of space needed between the disclaimer patch and the logo band.

For optimal visibility and impact, our logo should be displayed on clean, uncluttered backgrounds. It performs best against secondary colour backgrounds that complement its design. Ensure there is sufficient contrast between the logo and the background to maintain readability and brand consistency.

The size of the logo in a layout is always determined on the basis of its width. The logo must always be scaled keeping the aspect ratio constant. Please refer to logo ratios section for different sizes as per layout ratio.

Our Colour Palette

Our colour palette is designed to embody the dynamic and vibrant spirit of our brand. The carefully chosen primary and secondary colours create a visually compelling and cohesive identity that reinforces the core values of growth, positivity, and continuous progress.

4.1 OUR VISUAL LANGUAGE

Visual Style

Visual style

Creative communication has to match our brand values - playful, innovative and challenging. The visual language of mixed media and copy together should convey the same. In some instances, human elements in the visualisation can be a part of the composition but not necessarily a full human image.

The visual overall should reflect the brand colours and the background should be in lighter and pastel shades so that the main visual story stays in focus.

4.1 OUR VISUAL LANGUAGE

Visual Style

Visual style

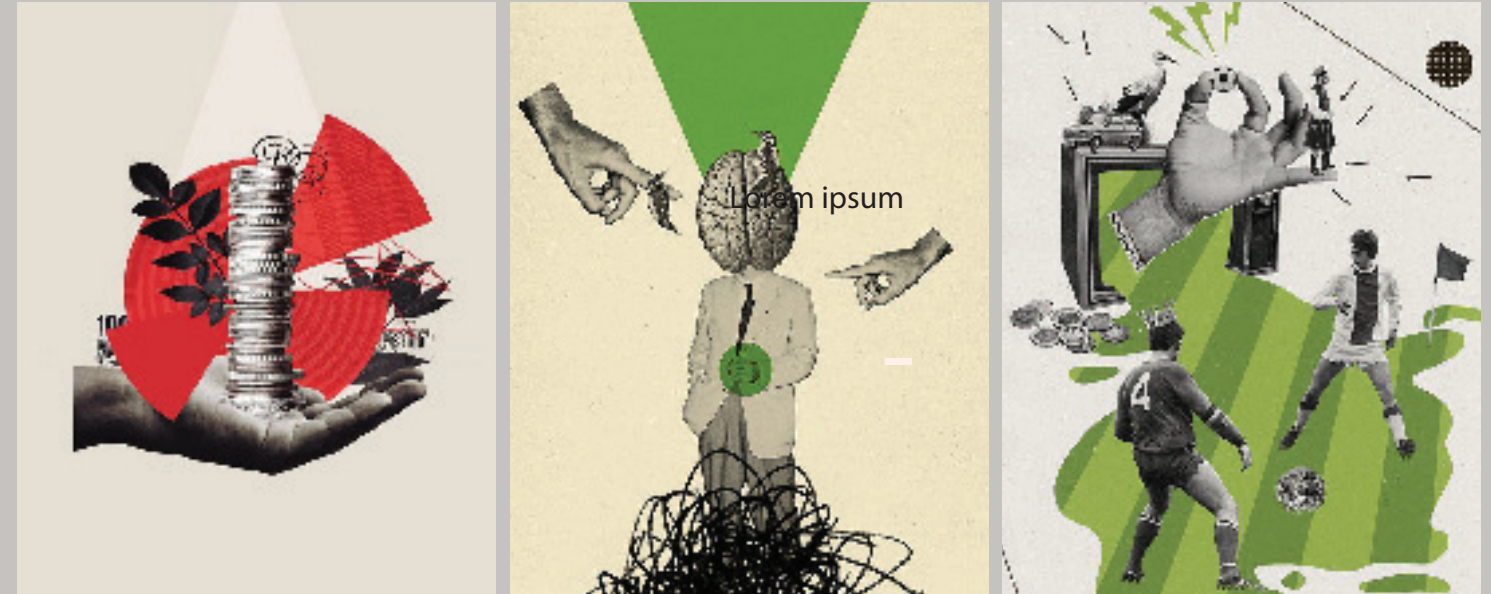

A well balanced mix media style of imagery.

Visual compositions to be created with photorealistic + illustration + graphic elements.

Backgrounds to be in pastel shades/tones of the secondary palette that will elevate the visual composition.

The visual composition should focus on the central idea of the communication and should not be too cluttered.

Human elements to be used in some form, but not necessarily as a whole.

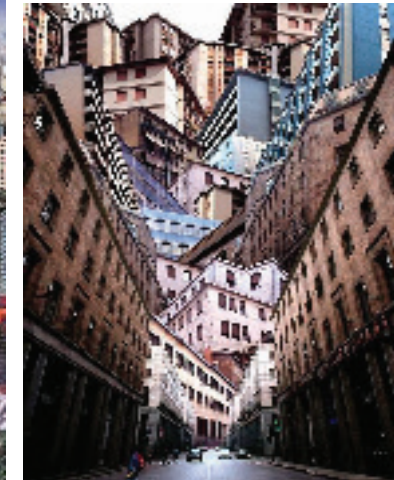

4.1 OUR VISUAL LANGUAGE

Visual Style

Do not use this visual style

The visual should not use more than 50% of the layout space.

It should not be cluttered and fill the entire layout.

4.1 OUR VISUAL LANGUAGE

Visual Style

Illustration

Dynamic angles whenever possible to make the visual look playful.

Anatomy of humans can be slightly unreal (eg ballon shaped human figures).

Wherever possible add the flame as an element in the illustration; this is no compulsion. However ensure that only one element of the visual can be illustrated as the flame (eg, just one drop of oil or just the shape of the lake or table is in the flame shape).

4.1 OUR VISUAL LANGUAGE

Visual Style

Illustration

A tree is considered as one element and hence multiple leaves of the tree can be in the flame shape.

Thoughtful visualisation to make the brand value of playful and innovative come alive.

Flat colours and simple compositions to be followed.

Use primary colors for the main elements and secondary colors for other elements the illustration.

Illustrations can be used for all mediums of communication.

One element of tree in flame shape

One element of tennis racket in flame shape

One element of oil drop in flame shape

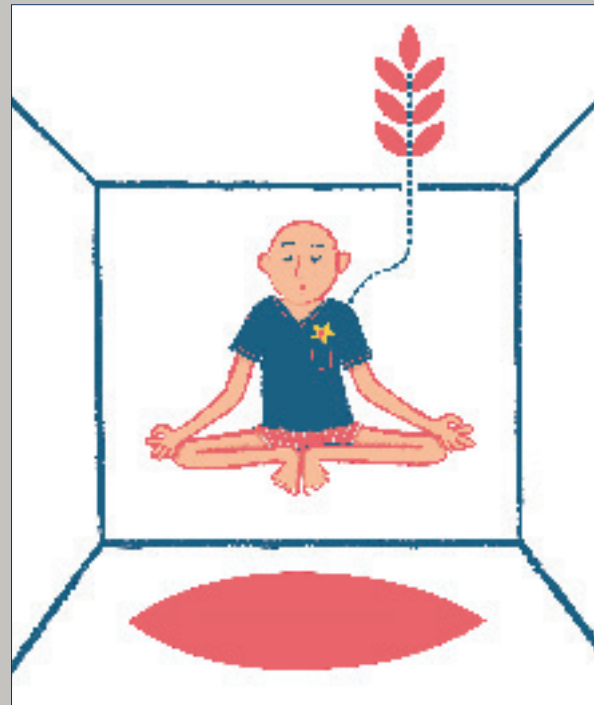

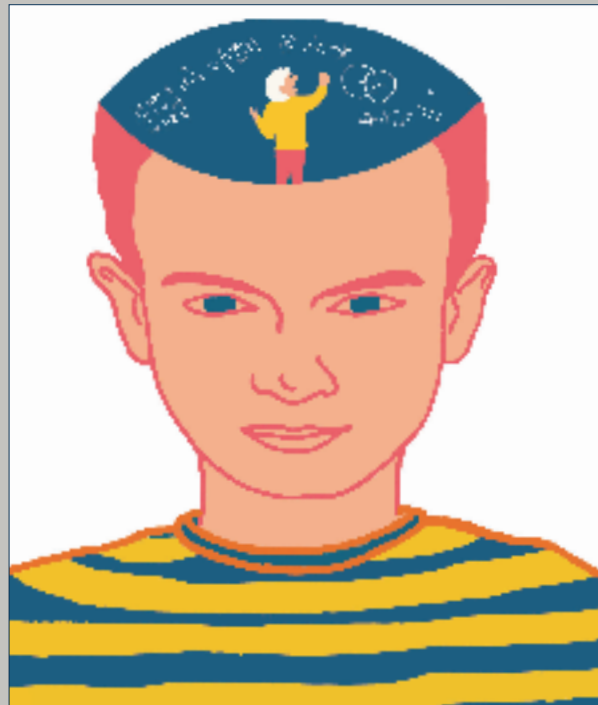

DO NOT USE many elements in flame shape

4.1 OUR VISUAL LANGUAGE

Visual Style

Illustration

4.1 OUR VISUAL LANGUAGE

Icon style

Icon Style

Icons should be simple, minimal line illustrations with one portion of the element in color. It could also be a full color icon or just a line illustration icon.

The shape of the icon will be circular to maintain synergy with the Bandhan logo form.

The base circle of the icon will be in the Bandhan blue. The colors in the illustration will be the vermillion red or the yellow of the primary color palette.

Every icon should only use either one of the colors along with the blue.

The illustrations should be graphic and not realistic or extremely detailed, so that they may be clearly visible in smaller sizes.

The illustration should have enough breathable space within the circular base so it looks aesthetic and does not look cluttered.

4.2 OUR VISUAL LANGUAGE

Photography Style

Photography Style

Images should be shot on limbo background, leaving the models in isolation.

Models should look active, energetic and playful. We must capture a happy moment of their life.

Ensure the model's clothes, props and other elements used are in the family of our secondary colour palette.

Backgrounds will be in the secondary color palette.

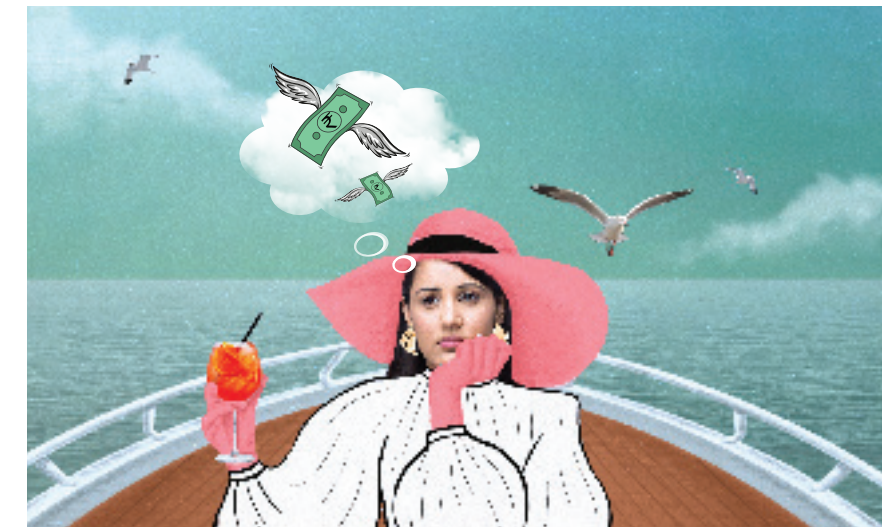

4.2 OUR VISUAL LANGUAGE

Photography Style

Photography Style

In case our campaign demands that we shoot models looking serious or sad and the photo is not in the playful zone, the mix media elements should then do the job of adding in fun. Making the overall visual fall under the same space as defined earlier.

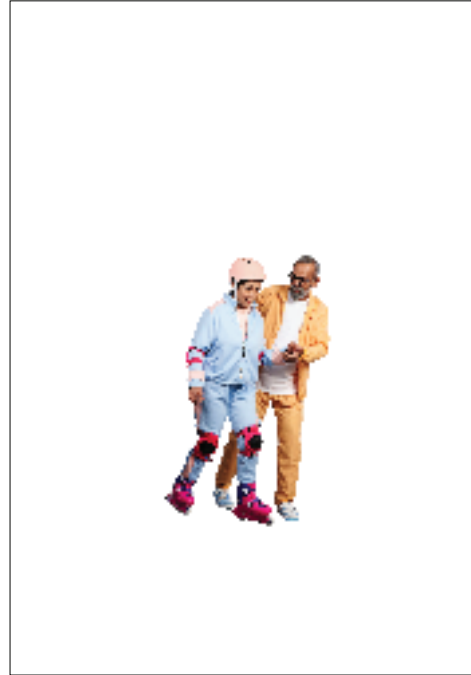

4.2 OUR VISUAL LANGUAGE

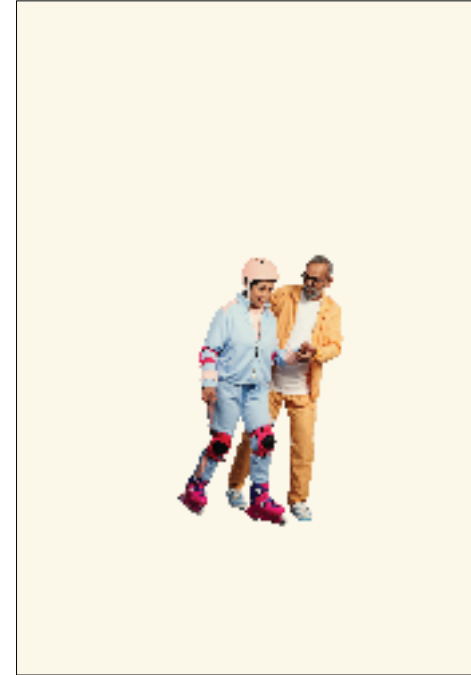

Photography Style

Photography Style + Mixed media

Example 1 of creating a mixed media visual

Limbo shoot of people having fun

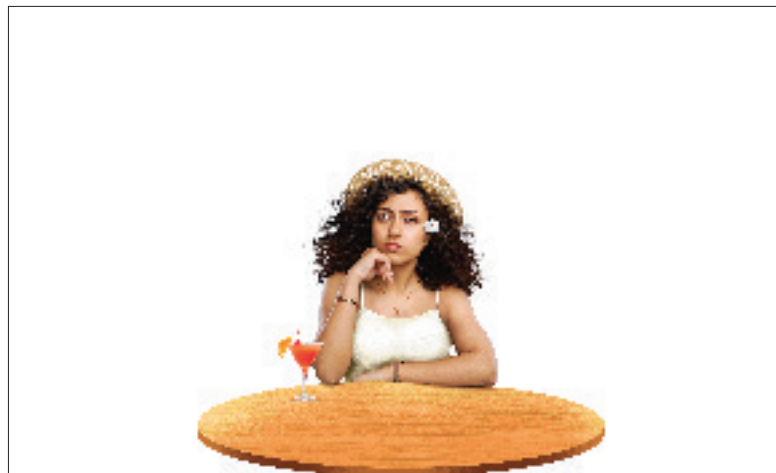

Add a background using our secondary color palette

Add fun elements to make the visual look playful.

Example 2 of creating a mixed media visual

Limbo shot of woman looking sad & thoughtful.

Add a clutter-free, simplistic background for context.

Add a thought blurb with birds to add playfulness.

4.2 OUR VISUAL LANGUAGE

Photography Style

Photography Don'ts

Avoid using photographs with elaborate or distracting backgrounds, such as detailed room settings or busy environments.

Avoid using the models posing for camera that makes them look staged.

Do not use angles that make the models look like caricatures in an attempt to make the visuals look fun.

Do not use exaggerated expressions that look unnatural in an attempt to make the visual fun.

Do not use standalone photography without incorporating mixed media elements. Our visual style requires a blend of media to maintain a cohesive and dynamic brand presentation.
